

Description: LOOKING AND SHIFTING TO A NEW RENTAL APARTMENT

Plan: When I'm shifting to a new rental apartment, first I consider the type of apartment like 1BHK or 2BHK. Then if it's close to my work location, have any nearby market for daily groceries, if it's having essential features like furnishing, security or having space for parking my bike.

Prepare: After this I check my budget which involves the monthly rent, security deposit and broker fee if applicable. Then I start looking at various sources like property websites, local listings and talking to brokers.

Process: After I have a list of available apartments, I start to narrow it down according to my requirements. I remove the options which are beyond my budget or located too far from my work and daily commute. Removing the ones which have less security. Shortlist the available apartments according to my requirements like unfurnished, semi-furnished or fully furnished.

Analyze: Then I carefully compare the shortlisted apartments by factors like rent, available facilities, travel time and the safety of the neighborhood. I also try to get feedbacks from previous tenants if possible. I visit the apartments in-person rather than looking just at pictures and videos of it from online or given by the brokers and comparing the condition of the apartments like one apartment is fully furnished but there are many damages which on longer run might need repairing and could cost me more even if the rent is less.

Share: Before making any final decision, I discuss my filtered options with my family members and friends. Discussing it with my flatmate if I'm sharing it. Also consulting with the apartment owner to clarify doubts on such as maintenance or any of restrictions.

Act: Finally, I select the most suitable apartment which meet all my requirements. Then I complete the necessary formalities like finalizing the deal, signing the rental agreement and preparing to move into the new home.
